Overview - Talk with me

Speech, Language and Communication (SLC): Delivery Plan 2020-2021

The Welsh Government aims to raise awareness of the importance of SLC and ensure that interventions are delivered universally at the point of need.

More than 10% of children and young people have long-term SLC needs which create barriers to communication or learning in everyday life¹.

Research shows that children living in poverty suffer disproportionately from delayed language². By this we mean, those children whose language skills are developing significantly more slowly than those of other children of the same age but who do not have a specific disorder. Language skills are a critical factor in the intergenerational cycles that can perpetuate poverty, as poor communication skills are passed down from parent to child³.

Key facts

- Over 50% of children in socially deprived areas may start school with impoverished speech, language and communication skills⁴.

- One in four children who struggled with language at age five did not reach the expected standard in English at the end of primary school, compared with one in 25 children who had good language skills at age five⁵.

- Researchers have found that, after controlling for a range of other factors that might have played a part (mother’s educational level, overcrowding, low birth weight, parent a poor reader, etc.), children who had normal non-verbal skills but a poor vocabulary at age 5 were, at age 34, one and a half times more likely to be poor readers or have mental health problems and more than twice as likely to be unemployed as children who had normally developing language at age 5⁶.

- Vocabulary at age 5 is found to be the best predictor (from a range of measures at age 5 and 10) of whether children who experienced social deprivation in childhood were able to ‘buck the trend’ and escape poverty in later adult life⁷.

The way forward in Wales

The Welsh Government continues to work constructively with the Royal College of Speech and Language Therapists (RCSLT) in Wales to raise the profile of SLC in the early years and put in place measures to remove the barriers which prevent younger children from progressing with early language acquisition.

The RCSLT has told us that we need to take a fresh look at the way in which SLC support is offered and delivered across Wales to ensure that services are equitable and reach all children who may need help.

The Welsh Government recognises the importance of a child’s development in the early years. This includes acquisition of speech and language skills and oracy which underpin their ability to learn to read and write and to problem-solve. This development is strongly associated with a child’s success in school and entry into the workforce.

Any child, irrespective of where they live or their family circumstances, might require additional support to address delays or difficulties with SLC. Our aim is to ensure that children throughout Wales have access to high quality, universal, targeted and specialist support in the early years – if required – to develop their SLC skills.

To progress this, we are exploring how we could take the learning from the speech and language therapy services within Flying Start and generic provision and embed this good practice more widely.

This draft delivery plan aims to drive improvement in the way in which children in Wales are supported to develop their SLC skills. It has been developed in consultation with the RCSLT and the Flying Start SLC Clinical Excellence Network which has helped us identify the actions we need to take over the coming years.

Ministers and officials have worked collaboratively on the draft plan to ensure that we take a cross-sectoral approach (to include education, health and ‘social’ policy) that engages families, and builds upon existing polices and what works.

It is recognised through commissioned research that Wales does not need to invent a new model for delivery. Instead, there needs to be a more strategic approach to make the current activities work across all settings in Wales.

The necessary programme governance will be put in place to ensure that all partners discharge their responsibilities in delivering the commitments in this draft plan. Regular progress updates will be provided to all Ministers to ensure this important work remains firmly in the spotlight.

9 Study to map the current educational provision of speech, language and communication support in Wales, for learners aged 0-25
The draft delivery plan is organised into 4 key objectives:

Objective 1: Raise Public Awareness – describes how we will reach parents\(^\text{10}\) with our key messages about the importance of talking, engaging and playing with babies and young children.

Objective 2: Improve the assessment of SLC in children (Early Years) – describes how we will standardise the assessment process, identify SLC issues early and ensure a timely intervention is put in place.

Objective 3: Upskill the childcare workforce and relevant health professionals in Wales to address SLC needs – describes how the childcare workforce will be highly trained and equipped with the skills to support interventions for children and families where there are identified needs in the development of SLC.

Objective 4: Embed SLC in Welsh Government policies – describes how we will review our policies and strategies to ensure they highlight the importance of SLC in the early years and beyond.

Consultation aims

We invite all those whose work and responsibilities have an impact, either directly or indirectly, on SLC development to contribute to the conversation and identify any further actions we may need to take to further raise the profile of SLC. We will need all parts of the system (education, health, social ‘policy’ etc.) to work well together to help us succeed.

Our ambition is to do more to support children with SLC needs and to build upon what we know works so that every child gets the best start in life.

This draft delivery plan will focus on potential actions and/or commitments required of all key partners to ensure children and young people with SLC needs receive appropriate support in order to fulfil their potential.

The purpose of this draft delivery plan is to inform conversations with key stakeholders; to tease out what works to support children with SLC needs; and identify what other action we might consider taking in the future.

Objective 4: Embed SLC in Welsh Government policies

Outcome 4: The Welsh Government will ensure that relevant policies and strategies reflect the importance of SLC from the early years and beyond. All future policy initiatives will encompass an aim to support citizens in Wales to address adverse issues around SLC, where they are identified.

<td>4.1 The Welsh Government is developing an integrated approach to early childhood education and care (ECEC) which will be based on key principles of child development. The aim of the single system is to ensure a consistency and coherency for children, providers and parents. Literacy Framework will provide further detail regarding listening and speaking. Overarching guidance will support settings and schools to develop their curricula and will include information on Accessibility and Additional Learning Needs (ALN).

To ensure the new curriculum supports the development of SLC and reflects evidence in this area we will consider the needs of younger children who might have early speech and language delay in the development of:

- arrangements before Progression Step 1 in the new curriculum;
- new curriculum guidance for funded non-maintained settings; and
- materials for education practitioners on child development to support the implementation of the new curriculum.

2019, provides one access point to further appropriate employability support, with qualified careers advisors ensuring that individuals are directed to the right place at the right time depending on their needs.

Advisers will use an advice and guidance-led enhanced needs assessment of the individual’s circumstances and barriers preventing them from progressing to employment, education or training, to enable them to refer the individual to the right support,

The Working Wales service holds a wealth of information and links closely with other advisory services that will provide an all-Wales entry point to employability support.

| 4.5 The current suite of employability programmes, Traineeships, ReAct, Jobs Growth Wales, Access and the Employability Skills Programme, is intended to be replaced by one programme, Job Support Wales in April 2020. Job Support Wales will support people into employment. It will be responsive to individuals’ needs to ensure they receive the right support to enter employment. As part of this support, help will be provided to help overcome barriers to participation including essential skills and additional learning needs. | From April 2020 | Welsh Government – Employability and Skills |
4.6 Offender Learning: The Welsh Government funds the education and learning provision and prison libraries in Welsh public sector prisons through a joint Memorandum of Understanding with Her Majesty’s Prison and Probation Service (HMPPS). HMPPS are responsible for commissioning all education and learning delivery in Welsh public sector prisons to achieve sustainable employment prospects. The funding supports training in essential skills; WEST is currently operational in HMP Cardiff and HMP Swansea and will be rolled out as an assessment and development tool to all prisons in Wales by the end of 2020. The Welsh Government will be engaging with HMPPS in developing a new curriculum for prisons by summer 2020, as part of the curriculum development consideration will be given to supporting prisoners with speech, language and communication needs. The funds also provide library services in prisons providing resources for offenders to access to further enhance their speech, language and communication skills.

4.7 On the 21 May, the Welsh Government published the Female Offending and Youth Justice Blueprints, which were developed jointly with Her Majesty’s Prison and Probation Service and Youth Justice Board Cymru; to help identify the additional support required for the delivery of appropriate justice services in Wales.

The Blueprints are predicated on the basis of early intervention and prevention; considering how we can further divert people away from crime in the first place, but when people do offend, they are supported in a holistic and rehabilitative way.

The Blueprints aim:

To divert women, where appropriate, away from crime and into women-centred, community-based, sustainable support services. Options for trauma-informed services to be explored.

To align preventative services offered to children with a joint framework model and shared risk or intervention trigger factors to improve outcomes for children.

Develop effective monitoring of prevention activity to demonstrate impact and to align reporting to Welsh Government, Youth Justice Board and Police and Crime Commissioner.
