Dear Keith

I am pleased to be able to send our final report in relation to Home Education.

We are simultaneously arranging for this to be translated into Welsh, and the Welsh version should be ready in around a month. I hope this is acceptable.

We will wait to hear from you and/or the Board about next steps.

With best wishes

Donald

Dear Donald,

Thanks for sending through the latest draft of your recommendations. I have circulated to Board members and we are pleased that our discussions have assisted your revisions.

As you indicate, this is a complex public policy area, so will look forward to receiving your final draft on 6th October. We have a Board meeting the following week so will be able to talk through our next steps.

With best wishes,

Keith

Dear Keith and Jan

Thank you for a constructive discussion last week. We have made various revisions in light of the discussions. Hopefully most of these are in line with the conversation we had. The one area, however, that has continued to prove very challenging is whether registration and assessment should be compulsory. This is a difficult issue – for the reasons we discussed – but on reflection I think we all concluded that a failure to make registration compulsory would mean that Dylan and the relatively small number of children being seriously abused would continue to remain invisible to services. We have therefore highlighted that this is a dilemma but recommended that we believe there should be a legal obligation on parents.

I look forward to comments from Board members in due course

Best wishes

D

Hi Donald,

Thanks for the discussion this morning. We certainly felt it was useful so hope you did as well.

I have emailed Board members (below) to expect an opportunity to comment further on the recommendations by email. I'm happy to act as the conduit for that if helpful.

Thanks again.

Best wishes,

Keith

Hi all,

Jan and I met with Donald and Tom this morning at Cascade.

We fed back our collective comments and focussed our discussion on the recommendations. Useful meeting I think. Donald will do some work on the recs this week. We have agreed to circulate those for further comment by email so I'll circulate when they come in.

Meanwhile Tom and Donald are taking forward work on a further edit and are on course for final submission on 6th October.

Best wishes,

Keith
