This guidance applies to local authorities in exercising their social services functions as described by the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014.

This document sets out the guidance for measuring activity and performance as described by the performance and improvement framework set out in the Code of practice in relation to the performance and improvement of social services in Wales, issued under section 145 of the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014¹.

Local authorities must comply with the guidance in this document in line with the requirements placed upon them by the Code of practice in relation to the performance and improvement of social services in Wales and other associated codes of practice.

This document relates to the financial year 2020-21 and replaces all previous versions of technical guidance. It comes into effect on 1st April 2020.

¹ Social Services and Wellbeing (Wales) Act 2014 – Section 145:

1. Introduction

The new Code of practice relating to the performance and improvement of social services in Wales² comes into effect in April 2020. Produced by Welsh Government in collaboration with local authorities and social care stakeholders in Wales, it describes Welsh Government's ambition to use a range of methods to collect, analyse and understand data and evidence on the delivery of care and support, and support for carers across Wales.

The code of practice describes an ambition to seek real and sustained change in how social services in Wales is measured and reported on and how the information gathered is used to inform the future of social services in Wales.

The cornerstone of the new code of practice are the quality standards. These consist of a set of standards that are aspirational in nature and designed to provide a challenge to local authorities to always work towards improvement through best practice and innovation. They are designed to align with the Code of practice for the review of local authority social services³ and link to the seven well-being goals of the Wellbeing of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015⁴, as well as map to the quadruple aim of the 'A Healthier Wales'⁵ long term plan issued by Welsh Government.

The new performance and improvement framework for social services in Wales consists of the code of practice as well as a series of guidance documents that bring together a number of key elements into a single toolkit for local authorities to use in their understanding of how social care is delivered locally and nationally and the impact it has on the well-being of individuals in Wales. Welsh Government will continue to work with local authorities and the Care Inspectorate Wales to review the current requirements under Section 144a⁶ of the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014 with the intention of integrating the Local Authority Social Services Annual Report⁷(commonly referred to as the Director's Report) into the new performance and improvement framework. The Director's Report will then form the overall mechanism that local authorities will use to demonstrate their performance during the year.

The framework has been designed to support local authorities and their partners to gather high quality data and evidence so that they can fully understand and improve how they deliver their social services function under the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014 as well as assessing the impact that this has on the well-being and protection of the people who live in Wales.

2. Measuring activity and performance – about this guidance

The Code of practice in relation to measuring performance and improvement of social services in Wales defines how local authorities must collect data and evidence and its relationship to the delivery and impact of social care to the people of Wales. It is comprised of three component parts:

- Measuring activity and performance
- Understanding experience and outcomes
- Using evidence to inform improvement

This guidance relates to the measuring activity and performance component.

Measuring activity and performance includes:

- A framework of performance metrics that must be collected and submitted to Welsh Government each year for adults, children and carers across Wales.
- Anonymous person level data that must be collected and submitted to Welsh Government each year on key aspects of social care and the people who use social services in Wales.
- Aggregated data on specific aspects of social care that must be collected and submitted to Welsh Government each year.
- An expectation that local authorities should gather their own data and evidence in order to better understand the context of local delivery of social care and what is most important to them at that point in time.

The data collected in this component of the framework provides insight into the factors that contribute to the understanding of social care in Wales by providing information and evidence on what local authorities do, how well local authorities are delivering social services in relation to the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014 and data on the people that local authorities are working with. The continued production of consistent data across Wales enables Welsh Government to assess social care at a national level as well as allowing local authorities to share data and intelligence that assists them in their journey of improvement.

Data collected in this guidance is a vitally important asset in understanding the environment of social care both locally and nationally. This data is also used to assess the volume of people local authorities provide care and support to, the demand on particular services and functions and as a tool that can be used by local authorities to monitor their capacity to deliver against the requirements of the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014.

The purpose of collecting data on performance and activity should not be considered in isolation of the other components within the performance and improvement framework. The data collected here forms a part of the overall evidence base and should be used in conjunction with other forms of data and evidence to provide a complete picture and understanding of social care, both at local authority level and by Welsh Government at a national level.

The framework encourages local authorities to gain better insight into aspects of social care at a local level by further developing data extraction, analysis and reporting over and above the national requirements so they can fully understand the nature and impact of their work.

2.1 What is 'good' performance?

The methods prescribed in this guidance document collect a range of information on volume, demand and flow and can be used to demonstrate compliance and ongoing improvement against the requirements defined in the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014.

It is important to understand that a single piece of data may not be enough to determine the overall quality of a service or intervention. The metrics are designed to be indicative of performance, rather than give an outright assessment.

In order to provide a better, overall assessment of their performance, local authorities are encouraged to undertake further work, using a variety of mechanisms for gathering and analysing data on the quality and impact of the work they are undertaking. This can include more detailed examination of a range of data including case supervision and engagement with users of social services.

2.2 Welsh Government use of data

The primary use for the data collected at a national level is to provide Ministerial assurance and to aid our understanding of social care delivery in Wales in order to inform and improve social care policy and legislation.

The metrics are also designed to provide consistent baseline data that can be used to analyse activity and assess compliance and improvement against the requirements of the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014.

The data in the metrics provide a source of information that contributes to the wider evidence base, for example, formal policy evaluations commissioned by Welsh Government. Welsh Government will use data and evidence to gain better knowledge at a national level in order to help to improve social services in Wales.

The data is also used routinely by Care Inspectorate Wales to assist in informing their individual and thematic performance review activity.

2.3 Data protection and General Data Protection Regulations

Data collected under this framework is governed by the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and Data Protection Act 2018.

Local authorities are responsible for the personal data they collect, process and hold when delivering their social services functions for adults and children and should make the individuals they work with aware of their rights with regard to holding and processing their personal information. Once data is transferred to Welsh Government, however, it creates a new dataset for which Welsh Government is the data controller. Data will always be transferred to Welsh Government using secured data transfer procedures (Afon).

Data will be used for statistical and research purposes and be held by Welsh Government for as long as it remains useful. Because historical data can be very useful in this context, this is likely to be a considerable number of years.

2.4 Data sharing

Welsh Government will publish metric data and aggregate data in-line with their policy for publishing official statistics⁸. Only aggregate data will be published. No individual level data will be published by Welsh Government.

Care Inspectorate Wales will have access to this data as part of their performance and review functions and will use this data to monitor local authorities' delivery against the standards contained in the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014.

Social Care Wales will also have access to this data in order to assist them with their role on leading and supporting improvement within the social care sector in Wales.

Welsh Government may also share data with non-government agencies and researchers. All data shared by Welsh Government is only shared for statistical and research purposes and scrutinised by the Welsh Government Chief Statistician to ensure it is shared on a fair and lawful basis.

2.5 Reporting social care performance

In developing the performance and improvement framework, Welsh Government examined a significant amount of research on the advantages and disadvantages of a variety of different methods of reporting social care performance at a national level. The publication of performance in a ranked format akin to a league table of performance has been demonstrated to have a number of negative consequences that can adversely affect how organisations respond to the need for improvement. As a result, the ranking of local authorities by quartile will be discontinued.

⁸ Welsh Government – About statistics and research: <https://gov.wales/about-statistics-and-research>

Whilst we continue to promote the sharing of data and performance across local authorities in Wales, it is important to remember that wider determinants influence performance and these factors should be considered when making comparisons between local authorities.

3. Definitions used within this guidance

The technical guidance for measuring activity and performance uses specific language and terminology to describe events and individuals that have been derived from the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014.

The data collections contained within this guidance have been categorised by adults, children and carers. These are defined by the Act as:

- “Adult” means a person who is aged 18 or over;
- “Child” means a person who is aged under 18*; and
- “Carer” means a person who provides or intends to provide care for an adult or disabled child.

a number of metrics for children include care experienced children who are now adults.*

Each of the metrics contained in the framework has an accompanying detailed technical definition. These have been developed by Welsh Government and local authority data and information specialists through the National Reporting Sub-group.

These technical definitions, designed to be used by data and information specialists within each local authority have been developed to provide a consistent collective understanding of the parameters for collection (what and how we count) for each metric to ensure that the same data is collected across Wales. These technical definitions are contained in the Metric Technical Definitions Catalogue⁹ available on the Welsh Government website.

The terminology used in the technical definition of each metric is consistent with the language used in the codes of practice¹⁰ for the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014. References to relevant sections of the codes of practice are included in the technical definition as appropriate.

4. Metrics for measuring activity and performance

The metrics developed in the new performance and improvement framework are simple single-sided counts of activity that collect data relating to local authorities' exercise of their social services functions. Specific metrics have the ability to be combined to create measures that are able to quantify how well a local authority performed in relation to the requirements defined within the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014.

Metrics have been categorised by the following groups:

- Adults
- Children
- Carers (adult and young carers)

The metrics included in the framework provide a view of the most significant aspects of all of the activity that is delivered by local authorities in relation to their social services functions. They have been developed by Welsh Government in collaboration with local authorities, the Association of Directors of Social Services (Cymru), Care Inspectorate Wales, Welsh Local Government Association, Social Care Wales and the wider social care sector in Wales.

5. Anonymous person based data collections

The component for measuring activity and performance also includes data that must be collected at person level. These are as follows:

- Children looked after census¹¹
- Children in need of care and support census¹²

An adults in need of care and support census will be developed as part of phase two of the performance and improvement framework (see Annexe 1).

At a local level, person based data can be used to obtain a greater insight into particular aspects of the work as this data can be analysed by a number of different characteristics allowing for a richer understanding of the delivery of care and support.

Data collected at person level has additional value as further analysis and linking to other datasets is possible – including linking data across organisational boundaries, allowing for more complex studies to be undertaken. Additional technical guidance is available for all person based data on the Welsh Government website. Links to these are provided in the footnote of this page.

6. Aggregate data measuring activity

The measuring activity and performance component of the framework also includes a range of aggregated data that must be collected for:

- Adult Safeguarding
- Children's Safeguarding (Child Protection Register)
- Disability registers*

*2020/21 will be the final collection of this data. Data from these legacy collections will be fully integrated into the person based census collections which will be introduced in phase two of the performance and improvement framework (see Annexe 1).

Data collected in the aggregate collections will be used to populate metrics wherever possible, avoiding the need to duplicate collection of this data.

ANNEXE 1 – Data requirements

The performance and improvement framework is delivered in a phased approach to allow local authorities the time needed to implement any changes necessary to successfully deliver its requirements.

Data collections following completion of Phase One (April 2020) are as follows:

Phase One

1. National Performance Metrics
2. Aggregate Performance Data
 - a. Adult Safeguarding
 - b. Children's Safeguarding
 - c. Disability Registers
3. Person Based Activity Data
 - a. Children Looked After Census (CLA)
 - b. Children Requiring Care and Support Census (CRCSC)

Phase two work will include some additional changes to the measuring activity and performance component.

Phase Two

1. National Performance Metrics
2. Aggregate Performance Data
 - a. Adult Safeguarding
 - b. Children's Safeguarding
3. Person Based Activity Data
 - a. Children Looked After Census (CLA)
 - b. Children Requiring Care and Support Census (CRCSC)
 - c. Adults Receiving Care and Support Census (ARCSC)
