Dear Members of the Disability Equality Forum

In these uncertain and unprecedented times, I want to thank you for all you are doing to address the challenges we are facing in halting the spread of Covid 19 and for the advice and support you provide to our communities.

Thank you very much for all you have done as representatives of Disabled People's Organisations in taking swift and pro-active steps to ensure that Governmental and Public Health advice is adhered to.

I greatly value the support and guidance the Disability Equality Forum provides to Welsh Government. This strong relationship will continue to serve us and our communities well in the coming weeks and months. My officials are in contact with you and there are mechanisms in place to capture information and emerging issues you share with them. These will then be considered in the decisions and actions being taken by Welsh Government. It is also very helpful to be aware of any action being undertaken or guidance being given by your organisations and I and my officials appreciate the information you have shared so far. By ensuring good communication continues we will be able to share and disseminate information and advice quickly.

I recognise in these difficult times, people will be feeling very worried about a number of different aspects of the impact of this virus and many disabled people will be feeling particularly vulnerable. We have been mobilising and reprioritising resources to respond quickly and appropriately to support our communities and, in particular, to those who need it most.

No person should have to tolerate prejudice or hate crime and I am saddened to hear of incidents being on the increase in recent weeks. I encourage community members to report any incidents. If anyone in the community witnesses, or are made aware of, any threatening behaviour or hate crime incidents, they can report these by contacting the police or the National Hate Crime Report and Support Centre run by Victim Support.

The Welsh Government is taking all possible steps to prepare Wales for Covid 19 – we are working with the three other Government administrations across the UK, with public services, private and third sectors across Wales, to plan the response and support around its impact. The NHS in Wales is working hard and preparing to look after and treat people who become seriously unwell as a result of this virus.

For latest advice and guidance, please refer to the Public Health Wales website

To be kept informed of Welsh Government developments and advice you can visit our dedicated webpage at <https://gov.wales/coronavirus>.

For anyone wishing to volunteer to offer any support in any capacity during this time, they could either contact their local Community Voluntary Council or register on the Volunteering Wales portal - <https://volunteering-wales.net> (this site now includes a category for Covid-19 (Coronavirus) and search term which people can use).

If individuals need additional support, from volunteering services, for themselves, they can contact the Volunteer Centres in their area directly. Contact details are at:

This week the First Minister launched a new campaign about how to help people who are staying at home because of coronavirus. The Looking Out for Each Other campaign focuses on the small things that we can all do to help each other during the pandemic. The website provides practical guidance about how everyday tasks, like running errands or simply staying in touch, can be done safely, without physical contact to minimise the risk of contracting coronavirus. I would encourage you to share this information with others.

The Disability Equality Forum plays an essential part in ensuring that we are able to convey accurate messaging to all of our communities across Wales, and I thank all members again for your support in such unprecedented times.

Yours sincerely
