| Phone call with D Clarke of DIAG | I rang Mr Clarke to discuss some matters related to the ES Completeness Check. I confirmed that we would not pass his recent correspondence to the Inspector to be considered at this stage, but that I have added it to the file. I re-iterated that the Completeness Check is not a formal part of the EIA process, is not open to consultation, does not address the adequacy | / |
|---|--|------------------|
| | of the information in the ES, and does not preclude the appointed Inspector from requesting 'further information' | |
| | subsequently. I confirmed that any 'further information' would be subject to the publicity measures in the EIA Regulations. I | |
| | confirmed I cannot comment on the LPA's handling of GDPR / EIR / publishing, but that when PEDW is responsible for | |
| | publishing documents we do have to undertake checks and make certain redactions, giving some examples (badger sett | |
| | location / bird nests / signatures / mobile telephone numbers etc). Mr Clarke explained that he felt the 30 day minimum for | |
| | public comment on the ES would not be appropriate due to the likely volume of information. I explained that the LPA is | |
| | responsible for setting the relevant date in their notice (minimum of 30 days from the date of publication) and that therefore | |
| | he should approach them with his concerns. | |
| | He asked if I knew the total page count, which I did not, and he said he was trying to ascertain if it is the same VES as the | |
| | appellants produced previously. I confirmed that while I am not involved in processing the ES and have not read it, it did not appear to be the same as the VES. I said I would ask a colleague to check the page count and confirm via e-mail. | |
| | I assured Mr Clarke that all public comments on the ES would be carefully considered by the Inspector once the appeals | |
| | have been started and that local knowledge would inform the decision making process. Mr Clarke asked if there would be a | |
| | public hearing. I confirmed that the choice of procedure would be that of the appointed Inspector, but that I did not anticipate | |
| | a case of this sort with this level of public interest proceeding without an oral event, re-iterating that it will ultimately be the | |
| | choice of the Inspector. | |
